DEATH OF MISS LUCY BENTON

End Came Quietly And Without Suffering, With the Passing of Sleep Into Eternal Rest.

Miss Lucy Benton died Saturday night after a lingering illness of consumption at her home on College street. The end, which came quietly and without suffering, was like the passing from the sleep of the body into eternal rest.

She was a devout member of the Methodist church, having been connected with it since early childhood. Before her illness, which had confined her to the house for some time, she had taught a Sunday school class and was connected with all the activities of the church work.

She was a young lady of culture and education, having graduated from Kentucky Wesleyan College, where she was known as a capable and industrious student.

She is survived by two brothers,

Horace Benton, ticket agent at the Union Depot and Mr. Norvell Benton, with the firm of Parrish, Bradley and Company.

The funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 1:45 by Rev. O. J. Chandler, formerly pastor of the Methodist church in this city, but now of Lexington, at the residence on College street. The burial took place in the Winchester cemetery.

The following were the pallbearers: F. H. Jackson, R. O. Fitch, Wiley Taul, W. T. Poynter, T. J. Bradley, Wm. Jones.

FEATURE PICTURES HAVE BEEN BOOKED

By The Lyric Management, And Splendid Productions May Be Seen By Patrons.

The following feature pictures have been booked by the Lyric:

"Maud Muller," Wednesday, January 17; "Auld Lang Syne," January 24, and "Durbar," Wednesday, January 31; (this last is the most expensive picture that has ever been made up to this time); "Vanity Fair," Friday, February 2; "The Three Musketeers," February 6, and "Cinderella," February 26.

The patrons of the Lyric are being shown the very best that is on the market. The management is booking all the best pictures just as fast as they are issued and showing them on their curtain just as soon as any house in the country in towns of 15,000 population.

This feature picture "Durbar" has not been released yet and The Lyric will show it one week after it reaches this country and of course will have to pay a very high price for its use. They will have to pack their house at every performance to break even on it. The managers state that they want nothing but the best for their patrons and will show no picture in their house that has not passed the Censorship. They will be glad at any time to receive suggestions whereby they can improve their service.

WINCHESTER IDEA—HUSTLE

JUDGE LINDSEY IN WINCHESTER

(By W. S. Anderson)

Mr. John G. Shedd, President of Marshall Field Company, Chicago, Ill., says: "What the country is suffering from now, is too much politics and too little statesmanship. Politics is always a destructive force, because the one theme with which a demagogue can be sure of catching the ear of the multitude is the rottenness of things as they are and the need of a change. Statesmanship is constructive, because its object is to open a road out of any lough into which the nation may have fallen, and to build bridges over the crevices and cut tunnels through the obstructions which lie in the way to safety."

I have always had a very great contempt for the man who criticizes and does nothing more. Destructive criticism gives no evidence of ability; constructive criticism is an indication of brains and often of genius. Judge Lindsey is a constructive critic. No man can use harsher words than he of some things relating to juvenile crime, but he says such things only to show the change that is taking place, and must take place. It is not flattery to call him a constructive statesman. However many other Americans now living to whom this phrase may rightly be applied there is no doubt that Judge Lindsey leads the list of them all. His work is so unique, his reform so fundamental, that his name must be placed among the distinguished men of our nation.

Judge Benton, in appropriate sentences, on Saturday evening introduced Judge Lindsey to a good sized audience. The excessively cold weather made it impossible to have the Opera House comfortable, but even so the Judge received wrapt attention for over two hours. It is a source of regret that the severity of the weather prevented so many from attending the lecture and made those who did attend uncomfortable. The college and Winchester were fortunate to have secured for an evening, a man who is in such great demand in larger places.

In the main, the theme of Judge Lindsey was the work which his juvenile court had done and the results therefrom, and the results that he hopes and expects yet to follow not only in Denver, but wherever there are boys. The Judge is a young man in appearance, but old in achievement and in knowledge of human nature. He is not an orator of the Bryan type, his voice is rather weak and lacks something of carrying power. In his frail body there is a glowing, great-big heart. There is passionate devotion for the unfortunate boy. There is love for men, and a hatred for the sins which men and boys commit. But the greatest hatred of all for the industrial condition responsible for placing children where they are exposed to the hardship and temptation of unholy surroundings.

The task which Judge Lindsey has set himself is a simple, though not an easy one. He is only asking for laws that will recognize the value of the individual as well as the value of property. He is asking that the resources of penal institutions be used to save or reform instead of punishing them only. Of course, he is wise enough to admit that some cannot reform or be reformed, these must be kept under restraint, yet so optimistic is he, or should I say so wise is he, that he believes that under the right influence and environment a vast majority can and do reform. Over and over did he declare that the jail fails to correct, the penitentiary does not reform. The dread of jail, penitentiary or punishment does not deter. Instead of fear must be instilled a love for truth and right.

This can be done for the boy of the present, the citizen of the future, only by an united effort of home, church and state.

The abounding energy of the boy must have wise direction or it will lead the boy to violate the regulations of society. The Judge believes these outbursts of petty transgressions call for wise counsel and sympathetic training. He reforms by commending, he restrains by trusting. It is his love, his fair dealing, his interest, his sympathy that has made him the "Kids' Judge." Words cannot declare his love for the boy. For the boy he has been maligned by every force of evil that stalks supreme in a big city. For the boy he has fought the political boss, the financial magnate, the grasping corporation. For the boy he lives, for the boy he has suffered, as for the rights of the boy I believe he is willing to die. The history of our times will not properly be recorded unless Judge Lindsey be enrolled as a great constructive statesman. It was a great privilege, and a great pleasure to hear him. Surely Winchester will be better for his coming.

TO SELL CARDS OF MEMBERSHIP

Associated Charities Are Doing A Wonderful Work, And Every Assistance Should Be Given.

The Finance Committee of the Associated Charities will this week make their canvass of the merchants and other business houses of the city to sell the annual Associated Charity Membership Card for 1912.

These Cards sell for $5 each and all holding one becomes a member of the organization. Every merchant and business house in the city should have one of these cards, and should keep it on display in a prominent place throughout the year, as it will be the means of saving far more than the price paid for membership.

A fraud beggar seeing this card will invariably pass by the house, for they know that they will be sent to the Charities if they appeal for help, and the fraud knows that the Charities will investigate his case thoroughly, and an investigation is the last thing he wants. The worthy poor will readily go to the Charities, when sent, and will be helped if their case requires it.

Every appeal should be sent to the Charities for investigation, and holding one of these membership cards no person or firm should hesitate to refuse to give to any beggar applying but should send the applicant to the Charities, as that organization becomes your agent for investigation and contribution.

It is hoped that all who purchase membership cards will put them in the windows or other prominent places that they may be seen by the public. The Committee hope to sell at least 100 cards this week.

Let everybody assist in this good work.

JOE J. ESTES ENTERS SUIT

Against Bayless Motor Car Company And Robert Lilly, of Lexington, in The Amount of $2,000.

Joe J. Estes, through his attorney, J. Smith Hays, has filed a suit in the Clark Circuit Court against the Bayless Motor Car Company and Robert Lilly, of Lexington, in the amount of $2,000.00 for alleged damages sustained when Lilly, as chauffeur for the Motor Car Company, did "unlawfully, carelessly, negligently and recklessly," run into a wagon driven by the plaintiff on the Lexington pike. The petition recites that the chauffeur was driving at the rate of 70 miles per hour; that the wagon was broken and destroyed; and that he himself received painful injuries.

The chauffeur is charged in the petition with being "careless, reckless and drunken."

Mr. Estes asks for an attachment on the auto and that said auto be sold to satisfy his claims.

With the thermometer close to zero and the ground covered with snow, a colored man walked from Clay City to this city, a distance of 22 miles, according to the story which he told Jailer Mullins when he arrived here Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The man stated that he had not tasted food since he started on his journey and that he had been on the road for 24 hours.

When he arrived here his feet were frozen and he was exhausted from cold and fatigue. He claimed to have been put off the train at Clay City thus necessitating his cold and almost disastrous walk.

When he arrived here he was taken to the jail where Jailer Mullins gave him some food and medicine and started him on the road to recovery.

Two other negro men with frozen feet have also been cared for recently at the jail.

FIFTY PERSONS REPORTED HURT

Two Day Coaches Left Track on Account of Spreading Rails.—Meager Details.

Toledo, O., Jan. 15.—Fifty passengers on the Big Four train No. 2 from Detroit to Cincinnati, are reported to have been injured in a wreck which occurred Sunday afternoon four miles south of Carey, O. Two of the day coaches left the track on account of spreading rails.

Five physicians from Carey were hurried to the scenes of the wreck and many of the injured were taken to a hospital in Kenton. Several of those hurt, but not seriously, were cared for by the residents of Carey.

The train left Detroit at 7 a. m. and was running about an hour late when it left this city for Cincinnati. It was due at Carey at 11:45, but did not reach there until about 1 o'clock, and was running at about forty miles an hour. The report says "The engine and baggage car passed over safely, but the two last cars were hurled into the ditch when the rails spread. The engine then was derailed and the baggage car turned over. None of the passengers was hurt fatally."

JOHN McNAMARA'S MOTIVE

President Ryan, of the Bridge Workers' Union, explains the actions of John J. McNamara, who organized a system of dynamite explosions to blow up the Los Angeles Times and killed twenty-one men as due to a "zeal in his work for the organization which caused him to become insane." Let us hope that that is the true answer to the question why a man should become so brutalized as to bring about the death of his fellow men in order to be revenged upon the capitalist enemy.

Undoubtedly labor has suffered wrongs at the hands of such men as Otis and Parry and Post and Kirby. They are the real causes of violence, of the growth of socialism, of dynamiting and murder. Organization on the part of laboring men has been a necessity. They were forced to it and its beneficent effect is seen in the increased earning and spending capacity of American workmen, in better homes, in better dressed school-children and all the things that go to make up the sum of human happiness. But labor should learn this lesson from the McNamara case: It cannot have public sentiment with it in violence and murder, even when that violence is conceived in the brain of a wrong-maddened sufferer from the oppression of hard-hearted employers. Never was there a strike in this country but had public sentiment with it when it had any basis whatever as a cause, unless violence marred its conduct, and in every such case that has come under our notice public sentiment went to the other side. An instance of this condition was seen in the Los Angeles election. A week before the McNamara confession it appeared certain that Harriman, the Socialist, would be elected Mayor. He was overwhelmingly defeated by a representative of the very forces that have crushed union labor because of that confession and the fact that he had been one of the McNamara counsel.

OHIO'S CONSTITUTIONAL ## CONVENTION.

Representatives of each of the eighty-eight counties of our neighbor north of the river are in session at Columbus, with a view to getting rid of the constitution adopted in 1851 and proposing one to the people more in line with the development of a great and progressive state. The convention has started well. It is not pleasing the Cincinnati Enquirer, owned by John R. McLean, which does not like the initiative and referendum and recall, nor is the Commercial Tribune, really owned by McLean but with E. O. Eshelby as a figurehead, or the Times-Star, of which Charles P. Taft is the proprietor, delighted with the outlook. The progressives are in control, however, and they propose to construct a constitution which the people want and will approve.

When one considers the actions of some of the courts of Ohio, particularly the decisions which prevented the prosecution of Boss Geo. B. Cox, of Cincinnati, the recall of judges does not appear to be such a monstrous proposition, though the people of that state have been systematically recalling such judges at every opportunity given them in the elections. Two of them went to the scrap-heap in the election of 1910, along with the Republican state machine.

MOTHER.

Such a play as "Mother" which appeared at Lexington, on Saturday cannot fail to have an uplifting influence upon the stage and its patrons. Infinite love and pathos pervade the story, which leaves upon the heart and mind a sense of peace and well-being.

Ah, a wonderful thing is mother-love. So far-reaching are its effects and so boundless its extent that it delves deep down into the dives of sin and shame, where her boy sits amid the clinking of glasses and the shouts of reckless companions; and soars forth to the splendid theatre in a far-off city, where the girl (who to the mother is but a babe grown taller) stands gorgeously attired, receiving the plaudits of a throng of coarse admirers.

When the boy, grown wearied in body and mind, wrecked in health and fortune, forgotten by old friends and repulsed by new, stands shivering a hopeless, his mind reverts to home and mother. There he will find a welcome, devoid of reproach; there a peace and comfort for his declining years. And when the girl, her glorious voice weakened by the passing years and her splendid physique emaciated by exposure and a reckless living, stands face to face with failure and a hopeless future, suddenly a gleam of hope and a promise of content penetrates the veil of despair which envelops her, and she stretches out her arms in the abandon of regret toward that mother-love, and it does not fail. In sickness and in health, in failure and prosperity, in life and in death, the mother-love is the anchor to which all humanity clings.

And the love the mother gives to the wayward son and erring daughter is as tender and as true as that she showered on the little one, who stretched out its tiny form and died, or he could bring to her who bore him, a further heartache. Many a mother carries deep down in her being the sacred memory of a tiny fevered brow, grown strangely cold; of tender, waxen baby hands; of plaintive calls upon her name all silent now; and yet, in spite of the pain and longing, in spite of the emptiness of her life, she turns to the world a face calm and placid, with a faith unsullied and a soul unmarred, ready and willing always to speak a kindly word and lay a gentle hand upon the tangled curls of somebody's baby, made sacred by the memory of her own.

Because of one dear baby head
With golden hair
It seems to her all little heads
A halo wear.
Because of one sweet dream
Of long ago
She consecrates her life—
She loved him so.

In a forgotten corner in a secluded attic stands a treasure chest. Its priceless contents could not be purchased by the wealth of a hundred kingdoms. And yet should a thief break in in the silence of the night to steal the treasure, he would find only a tiny box with toes kicked out, a silken tress of gold or a broken doll, maybe, or rusted soldier. It must have been a mother who wrote:

I wonder, oh, I wonder
Where the baby faces go
That come and smile, and stay awhile,
And pass like flakes of snow
The dear, wee baby faces
The world has never known
But mothers hide, so tender-eyed,
Deep in their hearts alone.
I love to think that somewhere,
In that country we call Heaven—
That land so fair, of anywhere,
Shall unto them be given;
A land of little faces—very little—very fair;
And every one shall know her own.
And cleave unto it there.

FRANCIS WILSON

"The Bachelor's Baby," one of the biggest comedy successes of the decade is to be seen at the Lexington Opera House, in the very near future. The popular comedian, Francis Wilson, wrote "The Bachelor's Baby," and plays the principal part. Mr. Wilson is said to have scored distinctly in his comedy and to have fitted himself extremely well and his Wilsonisms and inimitable little ways are shown to the best possible advantage. Charles Frohman will present the play with the same elaborate and artistic production as was seen during its long runs at the Criterion Theatre, New York. Miss Edna Bruns and that charming and clever infantile player, Baby Davis, still play the two important feminine parts. Charles Frohman will present Mr. Wilson at the Lexington Opera House, January 17.

PEOPLE'S FORUM

WHICH IS THE GIANT?

On the 10th inst., an article appeared in the Winchester News from which the following extract is taken: "The W. O. W. . . . enjoys the title of the Giant of the 20th Century."

In justice to the Modern Woodmen of America, this statement should not be permitted to go unchallenged; but it will be a sufficient answer to give the official records of the standing of these two organizations, i. e., The Woodmen of the World and the Modern Woodmen of America, which is as follows:

The official report January 1, 1911 shows:
Total membership of M. W. A. 1-166,207.

Total membership of W. O. W. 568,466.

Amount of insurance in force, M. W. A., $1,786,098,000.

Amount of insurance in force, W. O. W., $758,304,000.

Thus it will be seen that the Modern Woodmen of America not only had, on the above date, over 600,000 more members than the Woodmen of the World, but it had $1,033,783,900 more insurance in force.

What the record of January 1, 1912, which gives out, will show is not known, but it is safe to say that it will show that no similar order has kept pace with the M. W. of A., in its marvelous onward march.

A. G. BOYCE
SHOT TO DEATH

Father of Man Charged With Abducting Woman is Killed by J. B. Snead, Texas Banker.

Fort Worth, Texas, Jan. 15.—A. G. Boyce, father of the man who recently arrested in Winnipeg, Manitoba, charged with abducting Mrs. J. B. Snead from a hospital in Fort Worth, Saturday night was shot and killed by J. B. Snead, a banker of Amarillo, Texas, husband of the woman with whom young Boyce is said to have eloped.

Boyce, 70 years old, was sitting in the lobby of a local hotel when Snead walked in, and according to witnesses, Snead walked up to the elder man. The old man turned and looked at Snead and then asked him, bystanders declare:

"Well, what are you going to do about it?"
Snead muttered something in reply and then, drawing his revolver, fired two shots quickly. He hesitated an instant as the older man fell forward and then fired three shots into Boyce's side. Boyce was dying when others in the lobby, which was filled with people at the time of the tragedy, reached him.

Snead immediately left the hotel, but was arrested a short time later, as he was returning to the scene of the shooting. He refused to make a statement.

The younger Boyce was arrested several weeks ago in Winnipeg. Mrs. Snead, who disappeared from a Fort Worth sanitarium, was with him and was also detained. Mr. and Mrs.

"THE COMMON LAW" TO APPEAR HERE

Manager Dinelli Has Secured Splendid Production For Wednesday Night At The Opera House.

Believing that the theatre-going public would appreciate a play of the highest class, Mr. S. Dinelli has secured the Common Law Company for one performance, Wednesday, January 17, by guaranteeing the management the sum of $350.00.

This is the first guaranteed attraction that has come to Winchester for some time and "The Common Law" comes heralded as the greatest problem play of today, and tells a story of a woman's struggle against a common law marriage. This is the same company and production that has played all of the cities of the South, and goes to the Walnut Street Theatre, Louisville, after their performance here.

In the "Common Law," Montgomery E. Brewster presents one of the strongest problem plays that has ever been offered. As the name implies, one might expect to see man and woman living a "Common Law" life, and the woman afterwards having heaped abuse upon her for demanding that the man make a conventional marriage, that her unborn child might have a name. This is not the case in the "Common Law" as offered, with Irene Daniel in the leading role.

The story is, that Cyril Blake, a multi-millionaire has purposely thrown temptation into the path of Ben Adams, that he might force his sister into a "Common Law" marriage with him, for he can not offer her a conventional marriage, as he already has a wife from whom he is not divorced. What kind of a feeling it must be to know, that you must either see a brother go to prison, or accept a life that would lead to shame and degradation.

Dramatic critics in writing up the "Common Law," emphatically declare that the play is a great deal stronger than is Robert W. Chamber's book of the same name, for the characters are reversed which gives the woman a chance to defend honor and virtue, for right is might, no matter in what way that right is obtained.

Irene Daniel, in the leading role, of Jane Adams, the poor young sculptress, plays the part in such a natural manner, with a feeling of emotion which sways you with thrilling interest in every scene, yet she does not overdraw the part with inconsistency, and makes one feel that it is a reality.

Montgomery E. Brewster positively guarantees the same production as made such a reputation in the Dauphine Theatre in New Orleans, causing the dramatic columns in the newspapers to say, "The Common Law" is the best problem play ever produced in the city, and the greatest dramatic production of the season.

COLORED ASSOCIATED CHARITIES.

H. D. Colerane, Secretary of the Colored Associated Charities, has written the following article:

Winchester, Ky., Jan. 15, 1912.

We had in the treasury from last winter eleven cents, 1 barrel of potatoes and 86 pounds of flour donated by the school children. At a meeting at C. M. E. Church Christmas Day at 11 o'clock, with preaching by H. D. Colerane, the people contributed $5.55; our K. P. Lodge donated $5; Odd Fellows, $5; some Christian white gentlemen gave to Ben Johnson a lot of coal to be distributed among our poor; Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hodgkin gave me $5 to the fund, also Judge J. M. Stevenson gave me $1. for which I have not words to express my thanks. The Lord will abundantly bless them in this life and in the life to come.

Many of our white friends are anxious about their old servants and many donations are made by them that don't come into our hands. We thank them for their aid and wish we knew their names. This year all the resident pastors of all the churches seem to be in full sympathy without work. An expression from them will do much good.

Sunday afternoon, we had a rousing mass meeting at the First Baptist church at which we raised $6.35 and many subscribed to the work. Judge Evans has sent out several donations of coal. During the bad spell last winter, His Honor gave me 25 bushels of coal on the installment plan, 25 bushels at a time. I felt that he did not have perfect confidence in me and I failed to apply to him this year. Judge and I are the best of friends, but we differ somewhat in the manner of living.

I believe we can care for our deserving poor with $200 and 200 bushels of coal. I have promised a boy to buy him school books. He has promised me that he will discontinue running about town, misrepresenting our work and misrepresenting his mother. We call on all our friends, white and black, to help us. Anything you can give will be thankfully received. I will be out of the city 8 or 10 days. W. H. Allan will have charge of the work.

Any donation of money, food, clothing or coal left with him, Ben Johnson, Dr. J. H. Holmes, Dow Partridge, Marshall Bates or left at my home with my wife will be thankfully received and wisely distributed.

Friends, it is simply a labor of love with me. I am only expecting my pay when I shall cross over the River to rest under the shade of the trees. I am expecting to hear the welcome words to you and to me, saying: "Inasmuch as you did it unto the least of these, my little ones, ye did it unto Me."

With thanks,
H. D. COLERANE.

RED CROSS DAIRY FARM

Dr. M. S. Browne Has Fifty Head of Fine Cattle Shipped Here And Fine Machinery Installed.

Since the opening of 1912 Dr. M. S. Browne has bought about fifty head of cattle; Jerseys, Holsteins and grades, and has been receiving, by rail, from the great dairy regions of the Midwest, machinery, mills, shredder, ensilage cutter, engines, separators and appliances necessary to the complete equipment of a modern, up-to-date dairy plant; capable of furnishing "certified milk" products, and is now about ready to have such a dairy put in operation at the old Karsner homestead, near the city, and on the Colby pike, on his 250 acre farm, known as "The Griggsby-Karsner Place."

None but young, vigorous and healthy, tuberculin-tested cattle, capable of producing the highest grade of milk, will be permitted on this farm; which, for the future, is to be devoted to the production of high-class milk, for the supply of Winchester's milk drinkers. The owner has the promise of the aid of Dr. Robt. Graham, head of Veterinary Science and Serum production at State College, and was aided by Dr. E. S. Good, head of Animal Husbandry, especially in selecting registered Holsteins.

Mr. Wm. Abney, an active young business man of large experience, has leased the above place for a term of years, and will run it in conjunction with the owner. For the present, his brother, Mr. Chas. Abney, a practical sanitary dairyman, aided by his wife, will have the management, and invites all prospective patrons, as well as all persons interested in securing a pure milk supply for Winchester, to visit and inspect the premises, cows, stables, water supply, feed, grazing lots, milk room, etc., which will be open to the public after 6 a. m. Monday, January 15. Also, after this hour all orders for cream, whole milk and butter-milk given over Home phone 899-x, will receive prompt attention as they shall be ready to open up the new "Red-Cross Dairy Farm" for business by that day.

Put aside—just once—the Salts, Cathartic Pills, Castor Oils or purgative waters which merely force a passageway through the bowels, but do not thoroughly cleanse, freshen and purify these drainage or alimentary organs, and have no effect whatever upon the liver and stomach. Keep your inside organs pure and fresh with Cascarets, which thoroughly cleanse the stomach, remove the undigested, sour and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the decomposed waste matter and poisons in the intestines and bowels.

JUST TRY A TEN CENT BOX OF CASCARETS

Insures You For Months Against A Sick Headache, Biliousness, Constipation or Bad Stomach

A Cascaret tonight will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken and cost only 10 cents a box from your druggist. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never have Headache, Biliousness, coated tongue, Indigestion, Sour Stomach or Constipated bowels. Cascarets belong in every household. Children just love to take them.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—Fifty-five passengers remained icebound on two lake passenger steamers five miles out of the Chicago harbor Saturday night, eighty-four hours out of port at Milwaukee and seventy-two hours after they ran afoul of floating ice which made further progress impossible.

TWO STEAMERS ARE ICE-BOUND

Many Passengers Were Kept Aboard, With Little Hope of Immediate Rescue.

Neither immediate danger nor immediate escape from position appear likely when the tugs gave up Saturday night a second day's effort to reach the imprisoned boats with lines.

Wireless reports from the Indiana, one of the boats, indicated that there was enough food and fuel aboard that craft, and the other, the Kansas, to last a week and that lack of wind had robbed the situation of discomfort, but the approach of wind either off shore or on shore meant great danger and possible disaster. The smooth sea has given the ice blocks an opportunity to freeze together and to clog the screws of both boats.

John Lofting, a citizen of London in the latter part of the eighteenth century, had a passion for fighting fires. Though never a member of the fire department, he always responded to an alarm, and was usually one of the first to arrive on the scene. He rendered efficient service, but would accept no pay. He was a metal worker by trade, and in 1792 he invented a contrivance to protect the thumb while sewing. It was a sort of bell-shaped cup, hence it was called a thumb-bell. In the course of time this was changed into the more euphonious "thimble." The article is now worn on one of the fingers while sewing. Instead of on the thumb as formerly, though sailors stick to the old custom.
